About Georgia

Georgia is a sovereign state in the Caucasus region of Eurasia. Located at the crossroads of Western Asia and Eastern Europe, it is bounded to the west by the Black Sea, to the north by Russia, to the south by Turkey and Armenia, and to the southeast by Azerbaijan. The capital of Georgia is Tbilisi. Georgia covers a territory of 69,700 Km and its population is almost 4.7 million. Georgia is a unitary, semi-presidential republic, with the government elected through a representative democracy.

Ethnic Georgians call themselves Kartvelebi, their land Sakartvelo - meaning "a land of Kartvelians", and their language Kartuli.

Georgia is a member of the Council of Europe, GUAM Organization for Democracy and Economic Development and NATO.

The growing U. S. A. and European Union influence in Georgia, notably through proposed EU.

City of Tbilisi

Tbilisi formerly known as Tiflis, is the capital and the largest city of Georgia, lying on the banks of the Kura River with a population of roughly 1.5 million inhabitants.

Located on the southeastern edge of Europe, Tbilisi's proximity to lucrative east-west trade routes often made the city a point of contention between various rival empires throughout history and the city's location to this day ensures its position as an important transit route for global energy and trade projects. The climate of Tbilisi can be classified as moderately humid subtropical. The average annual temperature in Tbilisi is 12.7 C (54.9 F). January is the coldest month with an average temperature of 0.9 C (33.6 F). July is the hottest month with an average temperature of 24.4 C (75.9 F). Average annual precipitation is 568 mm (22.4 in). May and June are the wettest months (averaging 84 mm (3.3 in) of precipitation each) while January is the driest (averaging 20 mm (0.8 in) of precipitation). Snow falls on average 15-25 days per year.

The city is served by Tbilisi Airport, Direct Trains cover the route between Tbilisi Central Station and the airport in 35 minutes.
